They were right royally entertained.

Perceval H. Parris of Philadelphia called at the ADVERTISER office, Monday. Mr. Parris was a member of the Oxford Register Company that published the Oxford Register here in 1870. He has since practiced law in New York city and Washington, D. C. Also did newspaper work in New York. At present he is inspector of the New York Life Insurance Co., and is visiting relatives in Paris for a few weeks.

Mr. and Mrs. Solomon H. Millett have contributed two dollars towards the fund for improvement of the lakeside road. "I wish it was twenty instead of two," said Mr. Millett. It looks so much better to enjoy riding through it than to pay something for my part of the enjoyment. With a little care and labor and with but little cost the roads all through the country might be made beautiful places to live on and ride through. What about well built and graded roads?" suggested "A. H. Z."

"That would be too good to be true," Mr. Millett is one of Norway's best farmers. He is more of a practical than a visionary man. We can't take our money and let it casually be marked. "How much better it would be to try to improve the looks of the old world a little for ourselves and others."

THE NORWAY ADVERTISER

(OXFORD COUNTY, ME.)

May Be Hundreds of Brown-tails.

C. B. Hamilton brings into the ADVERTISER office some white moths with brown tails that answer the description around the electric lights and says there are hundreds of them. He has made a study of these insects for the past three years and he feels reasonably sure these are the brown-tails, however, to be doubly sure, he has sent some of them to experts in this line. The buildings near the electric lights are covered with these moths during the day, and they can be easily caught or killed.

Later investigation shows them to be the genuine brown-tails and they are in fairly plentiful quantities. They should be killed and no time wasted in the killing. Where these pests come from is unknown, but they are here.

Tuesday there were a good many on the ADVERTISER building, and on grass C. B. Cummings & Sons' store and other places where examinations were made. Freight cars coming through from Massachusetts and the coast all bring with them the moths. Something must be done. Who is to do it? Each person must do their part. In Lowell, the moth nests in December and January and the city sends out inspectors, and by a city ordinance, for each nest found by the inspector five cents is added to the tax of the property owner.

At Tilton and Lacombe, N. H. the moths made their appearance last Saturday and Sunday, and they were promptly killed. At Tilton they were burned from the telephone poles, trees and houses with a torch. The moths are found in large numbers on the buildings and poles near such lights. At Lacombe, bonfires were made under the arc lights and the city lights were turned off, and many of the moths were destroyed by flying into the fire.

This could be easily done here and many moths destroyed. It's necessary that something be done. We feel that the municipal officers of the town would be justified in expending money on the exterminating of the moths. If you want to find if there are any moths in your vicinity set out a lighted lantern and watch the insects that are attracted to it. The brown-tail has white wings with a body three-fourths of an inch long and at the end is a tuft of brown. Bonfires kept burning in the evening will attract and destroy many of them.

We hope they have not hit the country away from the railroad and electric lights, but we are afraid they have. Try the light and see and let us know the result.

Base Ball Association.

On Friday evening of last week the lovers of base ball organized under the name of the Norway Base Ball Association. The following officers were elected: Pres.—Chas. H. Sargent. Sec.—Chas. Bradley. Dr. B. F. Bradbury has bought him a runabout Maxwell automobile. The doctor went to Portland and got it Tuesday. It is a good looking machine, and will not only be a great assistance to the doctor in his business, but does he care to take his friends out auto driving a great winner of friends.

Stephen W. Libby has sold his house on Deering street to W. L. Merrill. Mr. Merrill is to fit it up as a photographic studio. His lease on the photographic premises next January and it is understood he will occupy the studio he has bought. Mr. Libby is having the lumber hauled to build his new home on the lot recently bought of Hiram L. Libby. A year old, fell from a hammock on their piazza one day last week, but fortunately without serious injury. Mrs. Carrier was swinging the child in a hammock, when the rope that held one end untied, and let the baby on to the ground. As the distance which the child fell is several feet, it seems very fortunate that it was not hurt.

Engagement Announced.

The engagement of Freeland Howe, Jr., and Sarah Brown of Bangor was announced to their friends Sunday. Those who know say they are to be married in the very near future.

The young people are graduates of Colby and while the engagement may be a surprise the acquaintance was begun in their school days. Mr. Howe is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Freeland Howe of our village and is a scientist of much note.

Miss Brown is the daughter of G. W. Brown of Bangor. She is the assistant teacher in the high school at Bangor and has been a most successful teacher. At Bass Island. F. A. Dossie, A. E. Poole, Boston, George A. Gunn of Bangor, and Raymond Smith of New York are, and they are their annual visit at Bass Island, Lake Umbagog. They are members of the famous Bass Island Club. This club house was built in 1880 and year after year the members made pilgrimages to the spot hallowed by many pleasant memory. There are sad thoughts too, for death has taken some of its most active members, and minor strings vibrate through their pleasures. It has been their custom to set one evening apart for the entertainment of their Norway friends. A grand good time is the result.

At Grandview. Miss Z. S. Prince, Mrs. H. L. Libby and Minnie Libby are among others at the cottage. Friday evening all the employees at the S. B. & Z. S. Prince store have been invited to a dinner party.

We were in error when stating that Ambrose Farnam had a diseased cow in his herd. It was a cow of Charles Dunn's and not Farnam's. The test has been completed and only one more tuberculous cow was found, and that belonged to Charles W. Ryerson in Yag-ger.

Norway & Western Railroad.

Work of building the above road has been at a standstill this season. Early in May it was claimed the road was to be built at once and Hotel Italy was built at the Lake and that was all.

Last Monday, officials of the Grand Trunk from Montreal, went over the route. They were M. F. Blacklock, superintendent, C. L. Mayne, assistant superintendent, A. Findley, master of bridges and building, L. C. Bond, civil engineer. They were accompanied by E. F. Fogg of South Paris, drove them over the entire route and they gave it a careful inspection. The business of whether the Grand Trunk are to buy the Norway & Western property and build the road is still in the air.

Mr. Jones is a graduate of Harvard, and so while not a member of Colby he was unanimously adopted and did his share in the festive occasion.

Wheelers' Big Shows. Al. F. Wheeler's new Model Shows exhibited here Monday afternoon and evening. Just before noon the street parade up Main street, led by the band, which furnished good music. They went around Cottage street, out Whitman and down Main, to their tents, opposite the fair grounds.

At 1:30 they gave a free show outside the tent, followed by a performance in the museum. The animals included Spitfire, the untamable, who has killed two keepers, and a Phillips the other day, made an attempt to kill Prof. Perrino, the present keeper. In another cage, with some dogs, was a three months old lion. An interesting feature was the dog that counts, telling the number of days in the week, the time of day by a watch, etc. The fire eater and snake charmer each performed their difficult feat in a pleasing manner.

The performance in the big tent opened with the Grand Entry, Queen of all Nations, by the band with a parade of horses, ponies, etc., many carrying the national colors. This was followed by his wire act. Then the great Zeah with an ease and grace that shows that he has had years of practice. Prof. Perrino entertained with his performing dog. A most amusing act was "Hoe, haw, her name was Maud," the bucking mule.

Other features of interest were performances by Albert Gaston and Allison Wheeler, the oldest and youngest clowns, Wheeler's performing dogs, hoop rolling and club juggling, Calquette, juggling on the wire and riding the unicycle, performing pony and other acts.

A concert of various comedy parts was given and Spitfire, the big lion, was brought into the tent in his wagon, and fed his usual meal.

The entire entertainment was clean and up-to-date, and deserved the good patronage which it received. The wire and trapeze acts were especially good.

By invitation of Rev. and Mrs. Taylor the meeting was held on the lawn of the parsonage on Paris Hill. The Norway union and the pastor with their wives of the two towns were invited guests.

Upwards of forty white ribbons, and guests assembled in the cool shade of the trees, from which were suspended the emblems of the organization mingled with the red and blue of gracefully draped flags. Tables decorated with daisies were spread, and ready for the noons of coffee served during the afternoon.

After the regular business of the union had been disposed of words of greeting spoken by the pastors who were present, the president, Mrs. Chapman, with a few well chosen words, introduced Ex-Gov. Taylor the summer on the Hill. Perham bears the weight of his eighty-seven years remarkably well, and he was heard with interest. His remarks were of a reminiscent nature, contrasting the two periods, that of the time of his boyhood and the present. Seventy-two years ago in his native town of Woodstock, there were but three male residents of fifteen years and upwards who were total abstainers. Mr. Perham was one of the three. The principal sales of the grocers were of rum and molasses, and it being no unusual thing for one of the dealers in Woodstock to sell a hoghead of rum in three days. He also remembered that the exact spot where the W. C. T. U. was assembled now, stood a grocery, where for many years its principal business was in wet goods. (For all that the Boston Herald tells prohibition in Maine is a complete failure.)

After the singing of familiar songs and a solo by Rev. E. O. Taylor, lunch was served and the guests departed, grateful for the courtesy of the ladies of the South Paris union. May they live long and prosper.

They go in the highway altogether. At frequent points along the line they have painted in white U. S. and some figures. The figures are the altitude above sea level.

TORTURING PAIN.

Half This Man's Sufferings Would Have Killed Many a Person, But Doan's Cured Him.

Thousands of grateful people are telling every day how Doan's Kidney Pills cured them of distressing and dangerous kidney and bladder troubles.

Yet other thousands are suffering every day from these same ills. Why? They are either very negligent or very skeptical. Neglect of kidney disorders leads to dropsy, diabetes, Bright's disease and other fatal diseases.

Sincere, honest testimony like the following should convince every skeptic.

A. C. Sprague, stock dealer, of Normal, Ill., writes: "For two whole years I was doing nothing but buying medicines to cure my kidneys. I do not think that any man ever suffered as I did and lived."

The pain in my back was so bad that I could not sleep at night. I could not ride a horse and sometimes was unable even to ride in a car. My condition was critical when I sent for Doan's Kidney Pills. I used three boxes and they cured me. Now I can go anywhere and do as much as anybody. I sleep well and feel no discomfort at all."

A FREE TRIAL of this great kidney medicine which cured Mr. Sprague will be mailed on application to any part of the United States. Address: Foster-McBarn Co., Buffalo, N. Y. Sold by all dealers; price, fifty cents per box.

July 4th in Hebron occurred the death of Mrs. Stella Arlene Whittemore, widow of Joshua Whittemore, a long time resident at the place. She was born May 10th, 1841, in Minot, and was the daughter of William and Stella Jones Harlow. Her death was sudden, as she was sick but a day or two, and was the result of a complication of diseases, although she had been in poor health for a long time.

She was the mother of eleven children, two of whom, Mrs. Herbert Mullen and Mary Whittemore, died several years ago. Nine children survive her: Mrs. Frank Ramsdell, East Hebron; S. J. Whittemore, Hebron; H. K. Whittemore, Auburn; Mrs. L. E. Rich, Auburn; Mrs. W. and Crocker, Minot; Mrs. A. T. Hamilton, Auburn; Mrs. J. W. Fols, Portland; Herbert Whittemore, West Minot and Edith Whittemore of Hebron, also five grandchildren and one great-grandchild. She also leaves a sister, Mrs. Watson Andrews of Harrison, and a brother, Herbert Harlow of East Sumner.

She was a member of the West Minot Congregational church, also of the West Minot grange. The funeral was held at the home in Hebron on Sunday, the Rev. E. Newport of Oxford officiating. The interment was at West Minot Riverside cemetery, in charge of the grange. The floral offerings were many and beautiful.

Rooster Foretell Company.

S. M. Bonney has a rooster which foretells the coming of company. Friday morning he came onto Mrs. Emma Bonney's doorstep and crowed loudly, then walked under the window and crowed again. The company commenced coming before they were out of bed in the person of Blanche Buck, in a few hours followed by a niece and nephew from West Sumner, Laura and Eddie Bonney. Then in the afternoon Mrs. Anna Monk from Lynn, and her niece, Ruth Elms from Auburn came, and later a neighbor's children were there playing croquet. So if your rooster crows on your doorstep prepare for company, as he may be equally as good as a prophet.

The New Universalist Church

At West Paris.

The new church which was dedicated June 28 as has been recently reported, is a handsome building and no pains or expense was spared in its construction that would detract from its convenience or improve its appearance.

Ground was broken on the lot Sept. 19, 1905, and the building was completed June 10 of this year. The exterior is colored olive gray with cream-white trimmings and with the thirteen beautiful windows and symmetrical tower is most artistic and attractive. In the tower hangs a fine tuned bell of 1000 pounds weight, which is the memorial gift of L. C. Bates and has the name Bates etched on one side.

Upon ascending the broad stairway to the entrance the first thing noticeable is the beautiful grain of the quartered oak doors and as they stand invitingly ajar it may be of interest to enter the church. The entrance hall is splendidly furnished and arranged and probably has no superior in the State in a church of equal size.

The size of this hall is 12x15 and at the right of the entrance is the door leading to the main audience room. Directly opposite the entrance is the stairway leading to the basement and on the left side an alcove is furnished with overhead arch and pillars on either side. The alcove is furnished with plate glass mirrors and at the left is a memorial window given by the workmen who built the church. This window has passion flowers in the center with a star at the top and at the bottom is this appropriate inscription, "Come unto me all ye that labor."

In the main part of the hall is one more memorial window with the name Cummings, this being given by Mrs. J. F. Emerson of Auburn, and Mrs. Fred Scott of Boston, in memory of their parents.

Between the stairway and the alcove is another arched entrance finished like the above and leading to the parlor. This parlor opens by sliding doors into the main room making the entire seating capacity about 250. The pews in the audience room will seat 130 and 150 chairs purchased for the hall below can be utilized when necessary.

The interior of the church is handsomely finished in weathered oak with pews and pulpit furniture to match, and in the parlor the mission style furniture is also of the same wood. The floors both above and below, are of 1 1/2 inch matched oak boards finely polished. The pulpit platform is carpeted with Brussels in green, with runs of the same in the aisles and around the sides, and a large art square of blending colors covers the center of the parlor floor.

The walls are harmoniously tinted with a shading of green, and the ceiling finished in cream color. The chandeliers were from the Best Light Company of Canton, Ohio, and are something new in this locality. The fuel used is gasoline which is fed from a small metal reservoir furnished with each lamp. The substance burned is gasoline gas, resulting in a powerful white light, quite similar to electricity.

The large stained glass window next the street is made up of four different sections, the principal coloring being in rich shades of gold and brown. The center was given by L. M. Mann, Mrs. Emma W. Mann and Edwin J. Mann, in memory of the immediate members of their family. In the center is a cross and lilies. The memorial windows each side are made to harmonize, the one on the right being given by E. W. Fenley, the one on the left by Mrs. L. C. Bates, being for her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Phineas B. Warner. Over these three sections is a large arched window with the inscription "Peace on earth good will toward men." This was given by the personal subscription of the ladies of the Good Will Society. In the center shines a kindly crown encircled with ruby colored stones, and below on either side are branches of the palm signifying victory.

The next window on the east side was the gift of H. H. Bates of New Haven, Conn., in memory of his wife, Adeline Warner Bates. The center is a beautiful spray of poppies shaded from pink to the deepest crimson, on either side Easter lilies, the whole being surmounted with a white dove.

The large arched windows over the pulpit was given by Dr. and Mrs. O. K. Yates in memory of their son Llewellyn, and daughter Myrtle. In the center of this window is a cross and crown of handsome design intertwined with lilies and the border is a beautiful pattern of shaded purple slightly mixed with other coloring.

At each side of the pulpit platform is a memorial window, one with the word Fickett, given by P. C. Fickett, and the other given by Mr. and Mrs. H. R. Taal for their daughter Nina. This has a pretty design with an anchor at the top. In the parlor on the north side is a rose window, circular in shape, the design a jeweled star with an open book in the center. This was given in memory of Samuel B. Locke by Mrs. Locke.

On the side of the parlor opposite the Bates window is another large window of similar size. This is rich in coloring and effective in design with passion flowers and lilies and open Bible at the top. The center section was the gift of Isaac W. Andrews of South Woodstock for his daughter, and is inscribed Eva Andrews Curtis. Mrs. Curtis was a formerly well known and highly esteemed resident here, and was deeply interested in both parish and Sunday School. The right panel was given by Mr. and Mrs. Levi Shedd of Norway, for their daughter Ida, and the left panel by Mrs. F. S. Farnum for her daughter Alice. This completes the list of memorial windows, making a collection of beauty of coloring and design which seldom is equaled in a village church.

One piece of the pulpit furniture, the communion table, was given by the young peoples' class in the Sunday School, of which Mrs. Eva E. Locke is teacher. The organ is a high grade Eskey purchased a few years ago by the society.

The Bible on the altar is of the latest modern edition and is the memorial gift of Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Curtis for their relatives, Asa M. and Polly Paine.

On going to the basement the first door to the right opens into Good Will hall which is finished and furnished in the most pleasing and convenient manner. Its size is 30x40 with a seating capacity of 150. A stage of 14x25 is built into the room which will be equipped with fixtures and furniture in the near future. The windows are of cathedral glass in white, the walls are of tinted cream and the finish of natural cypress wood. A nice large book case is built into the wall on one side and a fine Shoninger piano has just been installed. This room is fitted with tables so it can be used as a dining room. Two doors lead from this room into the kitchen finished and furnished by the Good Will society with every needful modern convenience, including a slate sink with running water, a large Quaker range and new table dishes. A new stove and refrigerator have also been purchased by the society. Back of the kitchen is a toilet room.

While the Universalist parish and society have for some time had in contemplation the building of a church home, and had accumulated some funds for that purpose it would scarcely have been possible to have accomplished this without the valuable aid and financial assistance of L. C. Bates. By vote of the parish Mr. Bates was made chairman of the trustees and of the building committee and he has most generously given of both time and money to further this enterprise which is deeply appreciated by all the friends of the society. The sum raised by local contributions somewhat exceeded three thousand dollars, including the cost of the memorial windows which was seventeen hundred dollars. The entire cost of the furnished church is over eight thousand dollars, dedicated free of debt, the amount above the contributions being the gift of Mr. Bates.

A free will offering of over sixty dollars was contributed in the afternoon of the dedication, which more than paid for the fifty new hymn books just purchased.

Mrs. L. C. Bates is president of the Good Will Society, which is an auxiliary of the parish, and has been a most efficient co-worker in the building of the church.

Mr. and Mrs. Bates have done much to improve our village, but for nothing do the Universalist friends feel more deeply grateful than for their christian home, which may fittingly be designated a crowning ornament to our village.

A True Story.

For the Girls.
There was once upon a time a young girl of the Madonna type of beauty, of noble form and dignified carriage. Endowed by nature with strength and health, and thereby fitted to enjoy life and its blessings and extend to others about her comfort and happiness.

At the age of dawning womanhood, the most critical time of life, this fair young being was tempted, by many false gods, by the false god Pride. As she had not the wisdom that cometh from above, she bowed down to serve this most tyrannical of gods.

She pursued the path that so many have found, too late, to be, a path of dangers over strewn with flowers beneath which were hidden thorns and briars. The flowers that enhance this treacherous path are vanity, flattery and admiration of the gods who bow down to the shrine of those who walk in this broad road to sorrow and death. An angel stood at the entrance of this road and whispered:

Little maid be cautious,
For your foot-prints stray;
Many slippery places
Lie along the way.
Life has many by-ways,
That may seem so nice,
But the feet that wander
Heavily pay the price.

But the bewildering witchery of this enchanting period between the dawn of womanhood and the years of understanding dulled her ears to that persuasive voice. Her Pride swayed at her side ready to divert, with his alluring tones, this little maid's thoughts from her good angel, who ever followed after her and admonished her in pleading accents to return to the path of duty. Her Pride was leading her unconscious feet nearer and nearer to the abyss from which there can be no return.

Not long after her meeting with Pride she was induced by him to encircle her waist with a serpent which he told her would add grace, beauty and attractiveness to her appearance.

That it possessed the magic power of keeping her form from losing its grace and fragile suppleness, and should cease to encircle her if she ceased to keep her girlish figure would be lost and she would become misshapen and ugly.

Her good angel saw this snare Pride had set for her feet, but she knew that while she remained in his power and was deceived by the seductive influences which surrounded all his victims, her childings would have little influence and she hid her face and wept for she foresaw what suffering lay coiled beneath the surface of that cruel, though dainty article of adornment, and she well knew the cords which laced it closely about her figure would some day be the cause of deep wounds that would afflict the sensitive flesh and bring agonizing cries from the lips of thy-nov joyous, happy maiden.

She followed with patient sorrowful heart, the foot steps of this thoughtless child hoping that when the serpent coiled in the dainty corselet began to give warning of its fearful sting, by its constant tightening pressure upon the internal organs, the seat of life and source from which flows health, success and happiness. She would listen to her admonition and tear herself away from the giant Pride who was swiftly leading her on to doom.

But year after year passed by and outraged nature began, to succumb and avenge herself. The viper coiled around her had weakened and sapped the energy and power that was necessary to perform the work that sooner or later would develop upon her. Pain and exhaustion began to prey upon the maiden's once vigorous body and illness frequently racked her frame.

Still she ignored the imploring voice of the ever faithful angel whose warning grew louder and more persistent as the peril of her condition increased; for the whirl of fashion and the charm of society had bound strange chains about her, and she was too proud to part with her wings as she scorching in their fiery blaze and they fall wounded and blighted by the fiery magnum that lured them too close to its shrine.

One day she met amid the rush and hurry of the world a knight whose glance thrilled her being as none other ever had and Cupid's arrow pierced her heart and she felt, fluttering with pleasure and ecstasy into the meshes of love's net, from which few are able to escape unharmed.

Wedding bells announced the sacrifice of another life to the caprice of mankind, and the woes and disappointments that come all too soon into every life however fair levels, awakening, or promising the future may be at the altar.

In course of time, perchance, a young life is about to enter this world of hardship and death, and now she begins to meet the incapacity of wronged nature to meet the emergency. If through the purpose of an All-wise Father her life is spared a lingering torture pursues her, waking or sleeping it never forsakes her. Her body is wracked with pain and suffering. Life loses its fervor, and she defers making the heart sick, and she cries to God for pardon and peace and repents of the folly Pride hath led her into.

Let us hope, ere such a fate befalls her followers they will cast all disobedience of the laws of their well-being from them and that they may arise in womanly strength and slay the demon, Pride, with all the attending evils and sins that are the out-growth of being ensnared by him. And ere it is too late they will listen to the voice of the good angel, Conscience, and lean not upon the weak arm of flesh for support or succor, to find at last that is a false god and will ever fail them.

However fair its promises may be, remembering that three thousand dollars, and beauty is vain; but a woman that feareth the Lord, she shall be praised," and seek the Lord with all their heart while he may be found, and call upon him while he is near, "that the evil days come not, nor the time draw nigh when they shall say 'I have no pleasure in them'."

If Pride, with its attending evils, will bring such misery upon one, what will the god of Selfishness produce? The root of all evil is pride, from which springs some of the worst crimes and cruelties to which mankind, through the transgression of God's covenant, is heir.

When this maiden arrived at the road where the giant Pride met her, had she looked about, she would have perceived at the right, a narrow path which led to joy and peace unspeakable. Lighted by night and by day with Celestial glory, reflecting a radiance that permeates the soul and fires the spirit to noble deeds, self sacrifice and the heroic attainment of imperishable riches, that the false gods of this world cannot give or take away, and triumphant entrance, at the end of the path, the hand of the true God, Wisdom, who leads all those, who are willing to accept his escort, into all truth where there is no darkness or shadow of death.

GILEAD.

Read Entertainment.
Through the kindness and thoughtfulness of H. H. Cushman of Bryan's Pond, the Gilead cornet band with their families had a delightful outing, June 30th, the very best in their lives.

By invitation of Mr. Cushman the band left Gilead on time by train, "all on deck"—saved one or two—full of fun and happy. As the train increased so did their enjoyment bubble over.

Arriving at Locke's Mills station they found Mr. Cushman's hospitality evident by his horse pitality, that is carriages for all, a thoughtfulness very much appreciated. The forenoon was fully improved, the band did not fail in any way, their part was played well, a credit to the host, time and Gilead. They gave many of their choicest selections.

Then came dinner in which Mr. Cushman again showed his ability and aptability as host. Nothing was left undone. Afterwards came a long afternoon full of amusements. The music on the lake was indeed a thing long to be remembered.

After supper the refrain was "we won't go home till morning," although morning found each guest at home. When it was time to take the train Mr. Cushman had his carriages ready and all were taken to the depot. So closed a pleasant outing. Mr. Cushman happy as a host his guests thankful for courtesies extended, a time long to be remembered by both.

Many Sudden Deaths

From Poisonous Rheumatism
The Disease Has Its Dangers—Should Be Taken in Time.

Rheumatism has long been regarded as a trouble which, while it might be painful, was not necessarily dangerous. Very few persons it was thought, ever died from Rheumatism. Recent investigation among scientists has proved, however, the utter fallacy of such a belief. Three-fourths to seven-eighths of the sudden deaths, heart failures, etc., are due primarily to neglected rheumatism. The Rheumatic Acid Poison is allowed to stay in the system until suddenly one day it grips the muscles of the heart and kills.

Rheumatism is curable if the proper treatment is used. Liniments, plasters and all local applications may relieve the pain for a short time, but no one ever heard of their permanently curing cases of rheumatism. The only way to cure Rheumatism is the Urice-O way. Neutralize the Rheumatic acid and drive it from the system. This is what Urice-O does. No matter what is the kind or character of the Rheumatism, it is all caused by the same Rheumatic poison. Lumbago, Muscular or Articular Rheumatism yields at once to Urice-O. Urice-O Drug stores the honor of Urice-O in Norway they will tell you all about its wonderful virtues and the many cures it has made right here in your own town. It sells for 75c and a bottle. If you wish to test Urice-O before purchasing, a letter to the Smith & Co., Syracuse, N. Y., will bring you a trial bottle free of all charges.

BEAUTIFIED A PARK.

AN OKLAHOMA TOWN'S LESSON IN CIVIC IMPROVEMENT.

Perry's Unusually Public Square Transformed by a Citizen—Hundreds of Shade Trees Planted—Advertises the Town.

Only a few years ago the public square in the town of Perry, Okla., the heart of the business district, was a forlorn waste of dust and red sand. It was littered with papers and glared ugly and hot in the blaze of summer. It was typical of the indifference and impoverished pride of many western towns where the beautifying of streets and the making of parks are regarded as useless extravaganzas. Today Perry's public square is the shadiest and most inviting public park in Oklahoma, says the Kansas City Star. Nearly a thousand young elm trees, strong and vigorous, stretch their green branches over the once barren ground. Every man, woman and child in town knows the story of this park and has learned the lesson it teaches in civic improvement.

The making of this park is perhaps the finest example of unselfish citizenship to be found in Oklahoma. The park was planned and given by a lover of trees, W. T. Little, Perry's present postmaster, and as a tribute to his devoted energy

RUMFORD FALLS.

Got His Quarter.
John H. Martin, who is now visiting his son, J. K. Martin, was born on Red Hill near Rumford Centre and spent a good part of his past life at that place. Mr. Martin has always been noted as a humorist. Here is a story. In the early days at Rumford Centre there used to be a swing in a high tree near the river bank where the young folks would float through the air over the running water. One day "Uncle John" was near by and offered a quarter to any one who would swing out over the water without taking hold of the ropes. A young man named Everett Lyford Brutus Caesar Bartlett stepped forward and jumped into the swing. Out he swung but when the swing came back, where was the boy? You can guess that he was himself. When Uncle John saw what had happened, he turned and put off thinking that he would be taken for a murderer, but had not gone far when a voice piped up from the river bank, saying "Here, old John, where's my quarter?"
The robber who broke into Felix Landry's pool room, found only a single quarter in the money drawer.

NORWAY AND VICINITY.

Doings at Central Park.

A crowd of about 250 gathered at Central Park, Thursday evening to attend the Vaudeville entertainment given by local talent. Those taking part were Prof. Walker Chandler and Little son, Francis, Frank, Fred and William Moore and Harold Anderson.
Prof. Chandler and son gave an interesting double hoop rolling specialty. The Hobo quartet composed of the Moore brothers and Harold Anderson entertained with songs and specialties.
Prof. Chandler gave an excellent lamp balancing act. The entire entertainment was good and a credit to those who gave it.

The Rose dance at Central Park, Friday evening, was well attended. This was the first dance held at the park this season. Stearns' orchestra furnished music.

During the evening, a horse that was hitched across the street and belonged to Bert Wood, became uneasy, no doubt wishing to join in the dancing, but being hitched to the carriage, he threw himself and was unable to get to his feet without assistance. Ralph Harriman, who was nearby, at once obtained help from the park. The horse was soon on his feet, with but little damage done.
Saturday evening, roller skating was the attraction. This is a sport that nearly all young people enjoy and at the rink here they have a fine chance.

C. L. Hathaway and wife are at their cottage "Summer Rest" on Twin Island, Lake Pennesseewassee.

E. A. Strout of New York, proprietor of the Strout Farm Agency, is soon to tour Oxford County, in a auto.

A. N. Burbank of New York has been elected vice president of the International Paper Co. at Rumford Falls.

Harry Glidden and family, and Willie Horne and Lottie Dagle are at Pinehurst by Lake Pennesseewassee for two weeks.

Mrs. J. W. Nash, who has been confined to the house by a severe cold, is again at her work at the taxidermy rooms.

H. D. Cole, formerly manager of the Cole Jewelry Store, is with W. B. Marsh's Jewelry store at West Lynn, Mass.

Without Charles Johnson on the streets much would go wrong. He is always ready to assist with advice, and aid in every opportunity where he can.

F. V. Sanborn visited his childhood's home at Meredith Center, N. H., this week, where his mother, sister and family from Lowell, Mass., are spending the summer.

"A Runaway Match," the play presented at the Opera House, Saturday evening, was very amusing and those who went there were well pleased with the evening's entertainment.

Charles H. Adams' horse, which was drinking at the watering trough at the head of Main street, Thursday afternoon, became frightened by the electric cars. The horse jumped and threw the wagon against the iron trough, cleared himself, and ran furiously down Main street with the whistle-ree flying from one end of the dasher. The horse with the whistle-ree vibrating from side to side, like a pendulum, cleared the street in short meter. Fortunately Mr. Adams was not seriously hurt and but little damage was done.

Base Ball.

Radcliffe Defeat the Bryant's Ponds, 3 to 2 in an exciting game.
The Bryant's Pond team came down Saturday, and went back with the short end of a close-scored game.

Roy Jordan pitched the game for the Radcliffes and kept the few hits scattered except in the seventh inning, but clever fielding prevented the visitors from doing the score.

Irving Pike was back in the game and played well at short.
Nash, a young player from Lewiston was played at center field, and the victory of the local team was due to a large extent, to his batting and fielding.

Those who stayed away from the game expecting to see it one-sided, missed one of the best games that will be played this season.

The home team scored 3 runs in the first inning on four errors. The visitors also scored one in first on errors.
Two hits and a clever sacrifice hit by Nash produced one more for the locals in the fourth.

The visitors looked dangerous in the seventh when Emery and Billings, were hit a grounder to Cole and Billings was out at the plate, and on the same play J. Farnum was caught off second, Leonard to Nash; F. Farnum went out to Pike and the inning closed.

Foremen vs. Professionals.

July 18th gathered one of the most picturesque groups of ball-tossers, long, short, plump and skiny, to contend in a five inning contest, which ended in favor of the Professionals, 17 to 7.

The game was one of the most spectacular ever played on these grounds in which many hair lifting plays were pulled off in the twinkling of an eye.

Tower, the mighty slugger, got into the game in the fifth inning and contributed a phenomenal slide to second, while Bartlett covered immense territory around third base, making several marvellous one hand stops.

Shepard and Bradley both used a side arm delivery, which has cut several great pitchers' careers short. The game was a snappy game at second taking all of Nevess' throws in grand style, while the fielders, Sheehy, Drake, Bradbury and Allen, assisted by Pratt and Leavitt, fielded their positions with remarkable swiftness. County brought fourth great applause by his wonderful stops at first.

Arthur H. Swan, a one-time Norway boy, now has on his business letter-head "Arthur H. Swan & Co., manufacturer of the Swan Patent Peel Blade Tip," of which he is the inventor. The manufacturing is at Roxbury, Mass.

Prof. R. E. Clement and family, when they arrived at their cottage by the lake, the first of last week, found it occupied. Mice had taken possession and had fixed things to their liking. They had been especially busy in making beds and bedding in the most approved mouse style. A little extra work soon straightened out affairs.

Mrs. Sadie Learned Pratt, wife of Edward Pratt of Andover, passed away July 6th.

Mrs. Pratt was the oldest daughter of Simon Learned and Louis Morse. She was born June 12, 1872, in Andover. She was married to Edward J. Pratt, Nov. 23, 1886. They lived on the farm where Mr. Pratt was born all their married life until three months ago, when Mr. Pratt sold and bought a home in the village.

Mrs. Pratt was a member of Ellis Glen Assembly, who attended the obsequies in a body. Funeral services were from the Congregational church, conducted by Rev. Mr. Quimby, pastor of the Universalist church. There was a profusion of beautiful flowers.

Wishes He Had Stayed in Maine.

Basin, Wyoming, July 9, 1906.
Since I wrote you from Billings, Montana, I have come 300 miles south to this place. This is new railroad and is as far as they carry passengers. But there are a thousand men shoveling it on as fast as possible. The best town is 35 miles. They have to draw everything by teams and charge 2 1/2 cents for drawing freights and 10 cents a mile for passengers. The mail is brought here by stage yet, 50 miles, but the governor has contracted with the railroad to commence carrying the mail the 15th of this month.

This valley is about 30 miles long and 10 wide. It is hot here; it is 110 some days, and the Big Horn mountains are covered with snow. We can see them plain. Don't look as if they were over 10 miles away. The river is quite high on account of the hot weather melting the snow. They tell me there are 20 feet of snow there now. It never all goes. The government is building a canal 60 miles long. It won't reach this place before spring. They can't raise anything here until that gets here, for they have no rain, but the air is pure. We are some 6,000 feet above the sea.

I came to go to the Shoshone U. S. land drawing, but it is 60 miles further on. I don't think I will go for the further you go the dearer it is to live. When I go from here I will go nowhere but to Minnesota or Maine, and be contented with my lot.

I wish now that I had heard to my friends and stayed at home. This is all right for a man in good health and plenty of money. It is going to cost $5 an acre for the use of the water when it gets here. The dam on the Shoshone river, that the government put in, is 175 feet high to furnish this water. I have had no mail from anyone since I left Maine.

I expect to go home in a few days. Warlin and Thermopolis is where the land drawing is to come off the 10th of August. They commence to register the 15th of this month and they have commenced to flock here already. Lumber $25.50 a thousand and some of it is drawn 40 miles.

Just tell my friends where I am and for them to be good and stay in old Maine. Yours truly,
C. W. WILLEY.

WEST SUMNER.

Howard Curtis, who recently sold his two farms, has bought one of Fred Chandler. So he will not as some feared, move out of town.

What is a Backache?

IT IS NATURE'S WARNING TO WOMEN

Diseases of Woman's Organism Cured and Consequent Pain Stopped by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

"It seems as though my back would break." Women utter these words over and over again. It is nature's warning to women that they are suffering from some ailment of the back, pain low down in the side, "bearing-down" pains, nervousness and no ambition for any task.

They do not realize that the back is the main support of woman's organism, and that quickly indicates by aching a diseased condition of the female organs or kidneys, and that the aches and pains will continue until the cause is removed.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has been for many years the one and only effective remedy in such cases. It speedily cures female and kidney disorders and restores the female organs to a healthy condition.

I have suffered with female troubles for over two years, suffering intense pain each month, my back ached until it seemed as though it would break, and I felt so weak all over that I did not find strength to attend to my work but had to stay in bed a large part of the first two or three days every month. I would have sleepless nights, bad dreams and giddy headaches. All this undermined my health.

"We consulted an old family physician, who advised that I try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and I did so, and in a few days, my back ached no more, my head was better than I had done for months. Within two months I became regular and I no longer suffer from backache or pain."—Miss Maude Morris, Sec. Ladies' Aid and Mission Society, 55 E. Hunter St., Atlanta, Ga.

Camping Out.

The boys who are now out of school for a dozen long weeks are lucky enough to have their vacation. And themselves without having to go to work to earn their spending money, are beginning to think of a way in which they may pass the vacation days to the best advantage. Some will go away to the seashore and spend the vacation at the cottage owned by their parents, in the company of other boys and girls who are as fortunate as they.

There is a way of spending the warm summer months, however, which particularly appeals to the boy between the ages of 15 and 20 years. This is the camping trip, an outing with a lot more good fellows who are equally fond of the forests and waterways and who love the freedom of the woods. The inherent desire for travel and the nomadic life which seems to be in every American boy, is never gratified so well as by a camping trip. With an older companion for counsel, plenty of good food and a healthy desire for out-of-door life, the boy who takes a camping trip in the summer goes back to school in the fall refreshed in mind and body.

It is as easy to start aright as the other way, and the first principle of a pleasant camp is not to take too much kit. When a camping party is preparing, a list of things absolutely necessary is made out. This is all right for a starter, but to abide by that list is folly. After the first list has been prepared, the committee should cut it down to the necessities. Then it should be shelved for a day or two and a second revision made.

Economy of space is the most desirable thing in getting an outfit together, and it is wonderful what a number of things can be bunched together with a little calculation.

Bedding is the first consideration. A real necessity is a rubber blanket. If the party is going to double up in the sleeping arrangements, one rubber blanket can be made to do for two people, but they should not go without plenty. Add to this two blankets for each member of the party.

Some find more comfort in a sleeping bag made of double thickness of blanket, long enough for the whole body to get into, and gathered at the top with a drawing string. The use of the sleeping bag insures a full share of the bedding to a restless sleeper and prevents many colds.

Then comes the cooking utensils. The fewer the better, after actual need is supplied. To each man allow a knife, fork and spoon of sound material, fit for rough use. It is better to buy cheap composition metal spoons and forks than to take them from the family supply. The knife should be of good steel and large enough to do service in many ways.

A sheath knife to be worn on the belt is the best kind for camping. This should have a hole in the handle through which a lanyard may be strung and passed around the neck. There is no greater misery than to be in the woods without a knife, and the greatest precaution against losing one is none too much.

A good sized camp kettle, a smaller kettle and a frying pan for the actual cooking should be added with the other things. Lard pails make good kettles, and after camp is broken up they can be thrown away without thought. These are also good for carrying water and for boiling coffee. Add to these a tin plate for each man, unless the party is camping in a birch district where they can bark can be got. For each man a tin cup capable of holding three half-pints is needed. If these cups can be got with wire handles that will fold in, so much the better. Get them in graduated sizes so that they will make a nest and much room will be saved.

Include in the cooking kit a small crane made of gas pipe, with a hook or two at the end of the arm. This can be jabbed into the ground instantly and is a great comfort. Instead of a camp stove of any patent, take a sheet of iron two feet square and set this up on four corners of stones.

Avoid kerosene oil at any cost. There is nothing that gets into the flavor of food and bedding like oil, and after a time it becomes nauseating. Cheese goes into the same category. For light take candles, and if a lantern is needed, have an acetone bicycle lamp and a plentiful supply of gas-making stuff. Keep the latter in a water and air-tight metal box.

The staple foods are oatmeal, flour, pork, bacon, hard biscuit, coffee and sugar, condensed milk and some salt and pepper should be taken for these are indispensable to camp cooking. The salt should be kept in a tight tin where moisture cannot get at it. Take plenty of matches and don't be afraid of taking too many. A sharp axe and a fair sized trowel should round out the kit.

Outer clothing is less a consideration than underwear, of which at least two changes should be included. For the toilet, a comb, toothbrush, soap and a towel are needed. Shove in a box of earline or washing powder for the kettles and a dishcloth.

If the party is travelling by canoe, the outfit and tent should be placed in one canoe and kept there. If the party is large, tacks should be arranged for paddling the freight boat. Nothing relieves the paddler more than getting into a light canoe, after sweating over the freighter. Take no chances with the loaded boat, for on its safety depends the whole comfort of the trip. In this canoe there should be a long slim pole for use in shallow water, where there is a current and hardly room to get the paddle down. In using a pole stand over the second bar and feel the bottom carefully before putting any strain on the pole.

In choosing a camping place, select high ground where water will not settle around the tent. Make a shallow trench around the tent to carry water off. Trouble should not be spared in setting up the tent in the first place. After the tent is set up the entire party should scout for spruce tips or hemlock for bedding. Bushels of these are wanted and the greatest care should be exercised in securing the finest and sweetest.

Small twigs have a way of growing during the night into logs. Pile these a foot deep at least and spread the waterproof blanket over them. If rightly done this bed is equal to feather beds, and the first night's sleep will be as good as the last. It is wonderful how cold the nights can be if the sleeper gets the slightest dampness from the ground.

Neatness in and about the camp will repay trouble. Good campers never confusion in their dwellings and never delay in setting things to rights early. After the night, each item of clothing and bedding should be aired and the tent flaps rolled up to the limit. The dishes and pots should be washed and set in the sun. After thoroughly drying they should be set in their proper places and kept there.

If there is a loafer in the camp, his grub should be doctored until he gets ready to do his share in the work. And whatever you do boys, don't forage. There is an old saying that "stolen fruit is the sweetest," and it is fun to make a raid on some garden and lug off a lot of potatoes, green corn, apples, or something of that sort. You are not tramps or vagrants and you don't have to steal your food.

Word has been received here of the death in LaCrosse, Kansas, July 3, of May Whitman Davis, daughter of Rev. E. Z. Whitman and wife of J. W. Davis of this place. She had gone to Kansas a few months ago, hoping that a change of climate might prove helpful. She leaves a little daughter.

Fryeburg Academy.

The annual meeting of the Board of trustees of Fryeburg academy was held at the New Church Hall, Fryeburg, July 14. The members of the board present were, Dr. S. C. Gordon of Portland, president of the board; Judge A. H. Walker of Bridgton, vice president; Calvin Austin of Boston, treasurer; Walter A. Robinson of Portland, secretary; Hon. Joel E. Morrill of Conway, N. H., Messrs. Carlton H. Walker, Alonzo H. Lewis, A. R. Jenness of Fryeburg; Judge Henry C. Peabody of Portland; Edward E. Hastings, Esq. of Fryeburg was elected trustee to succeed the late John Weston. Mr. Hastings, after election, entered the meeting and took part. The officers elected for the ensuing year were:

Pres.—Dr. S. C. Gordon.
V. Pres.—Hon. W. W. Towle of Boston.
Treas.—Calvin Austin.
Sec.—Walter A. Robinson.
Executive Com.—Dr. Gordon, Prof. George T. Files of Bowdoin College, Mr. Robinson.
Com. on Finance—Messrs. Gordon, Hastings, Towle.
Com. on Accounts—Messrs. Towle, Jenness, Morrill.
Com. on Examination—Messrs. Files, Lewis, Peabody.
Com. on Buildings and Grounds—Messrs. Jenness, Weeks, Morrill.

The completed plans for four new buildings were brought to the meeting. The first one is a new academy building to serve for assembly and recitations purposes. The type of architecture is Greek with four large columns in front extending two stories above the roof line. The building is to be erected of granite to the height of six feet above the ground. Above this are to be two stories of light brick. The basement extending six feet above and six feet below ground will be used for recreation rooms and for heating and ventilation purposes. The first floor will have three study rooms and two recitation rooms, besides the principal's office. The second floor will have three study rooms, two recitation rooms, a school library, and a teacher's room. This building is to be erected at a cost of $85,000 which has in part been promised and will be easily obtained when the proper time comes to build.

The other buildings are a library, gymnasium, and refectory. The library is to be constructed of granite and brick, and on the first floor will contain a stack room, reading room, delivery hall and four conference rooms. This is a very attractive little building and is estimated at $15,000. It is hoped that this will be given as a memorial building by an Alumnus of the school.

The gymnasium contains two stories besides the basement. It is to be entirely modern containing locker room, baths, a swimming tank, etc. The building is estimated at $12,000. One of the finest buildings yet proposed is the refectory which will contain two stories, the upper one of which will be large enough to accommodate the school of 300 students. The front of the building will have four large columns extending two stories in height. The classic type of architecture makes it most impressive and entirely in keeping with the traditions and present standing of the school.

Many of the leading newspapers of the country editorially remark that there are now forty-six stars in the flag of the United States, and in quite a good many cities and even at some forts, a national salute of forty-six guns was fired on the 4th of July day. There are still forty-five stars in the flag and still further will be made until July 4, 1907, and then there may be forty-six or perhaps forty-seven if Arizona decides to come into the union upon the terms of the new people. The flag of Oklahoma is not yet officially a member of the United States. The law admits her if she wants to come in, but she hasn't voted to come in yet. And in any event the new stars are not added to the flag until next July.

OXFORD.

Oxford 8, Sabattus 1.

The Oxford baseball team won from the Sabattus boys in a one sided victory. The game of base ball. The game with the exception of the first inning was full of sharp and snappy plays. The visitors had one bad inning as most teams will have during a game and allowed Oxford boys, who were always ready to take advantage of every little weakness, to score six runs.

Stevens, the Sabattus pitcher got "wise" and whirled around to throw to second to catch a runner napping but instead threw to short stop, who was not looking for it and struck him in the back and Oxford began running bases like little boys through an apple orchard.

With Adams' effectiveness and good support when men were on bases kept clean from reaching third after the second inning. Mr. Norris umpired a good game with some exceptions. Oxford will play Bryant's Pond, Saturday, July 21 at Bryant's Pond. Following is the score:
